There is nothing like the love between a MOTHER & SON

Moms who keep their sons close to them are setting them up for success later on in life. This is why VIP 305 interviewed Ximena Cordova and her son Samuel, because we wanted to know how they are always getting along so well. Here are their answers:

Sam, tell us a little bit about yourself.

Sam: All right well, I love my mom first of all. I'm a senior in high school. I'm 18; I play sports, not right now because I'm focusing on school. I have pretty good grades, and I guess I could say I'm a pretty good leader as well.

Do you know what you want to study already?

Sam: yes, I want to study economics. I definitely want to get into politics and law for sure and I guess I'm good at talking to people.

What sports did you used to play?

Sam: I played Football for a long time, I was the quarterback. That was a big part of my life .

What do you guys like to do together?

Ximena: Everything.

Sam: We go to the movies a lot!

Ximena: nosotros somos very good friends. I had him when I was 16, and we had to grow up together and even though we are mom and son we are pretty close, we go to the movies, we talk about everything.

Did you guys always live in Miami?

Sam: No we didn't, we lived in Colombia until I was 9 years old and then we came to the US and it was tough.

Ximena: Me siento muy feliz de la oportunidad que Dios me dio de venir a este país, nosotros somos inmigrantes como la mayoría de las personas latinas en los Estados Unidos.

Are there any stories that your mom always tells you about you when you were little?

Sam: well she used to tell me that when she was pregnant with me, she used to eat ice so I could get hiccups, so that she could feel me kicking. And when she was pregnant she wrote in a little journal, and she wrote everything that was going on and that's just been a huge thing, I just knew from day one that my mom loved me.

Do you want to stay in Florida, for college?

Sam: honestly I do want to stay in Florida, not because I'm a mommy's boy or whatever, but because I feel stable and even if I go up north in Florida, I'm still going to talk to her.

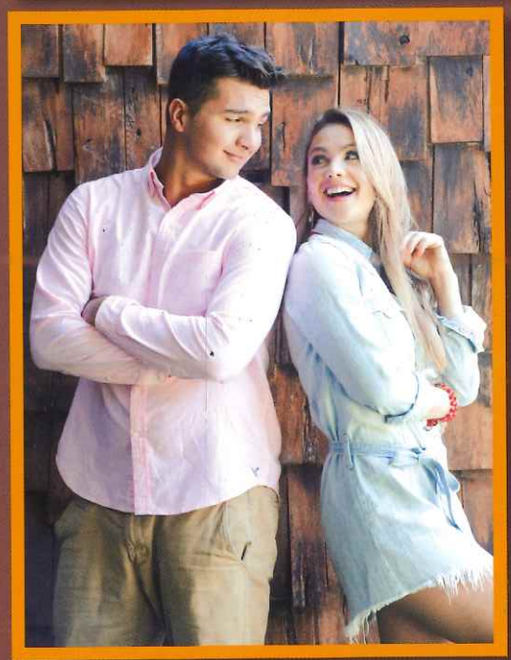

Ximena: yo voy a ser lo necesario, y trabajar lo necesario para que él no tenga que pasar trabajo y que se enfoca a sus estudios nada más.También quiero que el termine la universidad completa.

Sam: Quitting isn't an option for me, college to me is extremely important and school also.

What sacrifices other than moving here and having to work hard to pay for him what sacrifices do you think you had to make to support him?

Sam: I think a lot, I mean, so many that I can't even tell you, but we also had many blessings and I consider we are fortunate because of all of the people that came in and out of our lives.

Ximena: Cada esfuerzo y cada sacrificio tiene su recompensa entonces, valió mucho la pena.

"Busquemos siempre de ser un buen ejemplo en la vida y mandemos ese mensaje positivo en todo lo que hacemos, es por eso que me gusta tanto lo que la revista VIP está haciendo, ya que a través de ellos podemos aprender y seguir mensajes positivos que pasan día a día en la vida de todo ser humano y en este caso de los adolescentes".

BREAST CANCER Awarnes MONTH

October is Breast Cancer Awareness Month, an important time to learn about the risks all women face. But while these facts can be frightening, there are reasons for optimism as well. When breast cancer is diagnosed early and treated, survival rates can be near 100 percent. That is why regular screenings and quality treatment are critical to the millions of women who will be diagnosed in their lifetimes. That is why October was all about pink.

ARMY JROTC

Motivating young people to be BETTER CITIZENS!

We wanted to learn the reasons why hundreds of young students, across the country, like Wilfredo join the JROTC and this is what he had to say:

At age 16 Wilfredo Barrios is a JROTC sergeant from Southwest Miami High School.

Q: From all the electives that you have at your school, why did you pick JROTC?

A: I chose the JROTC because it teaches you life values and things that you will use during your life, such as time management, something most people don't have also, it builds character.

Q: what do you learn in the JROTC?

A: we learn time management, how to be a successful leader, leadership skills, and what it's like to be a leader; we also learn first aid, land navigation, and how to read a map and a compass.

Q: How do they help you with a college application?

A: that looks very good in the aspect that colleges know you are disappointed and won't have to worry as much as I love you doing anything illegal, they know you have leadership skills so if you get involved in any clubs you have an advantage of knowing how to run the place, and job wise if you work on campus you would be put in a high position.

Q: Do you receive any community hours?

A: Yes, a lot actually.

Q: Can you tell me about the tattoo policy?

A: No tattoos are allowed in the JROTC. We also have a dress code and code of conduct along with a creed.

Q: Tell us about your experiences in the competitions?

A: Competitions are very fun, and it experience where you can't have anywhere else, it's an exciting feeling and very challenging, pushing yourself to the very end.

Q: what advice would you give the freshmen who want to join the JROTC?

A: follow orders and work hard to prove your mind, and strengthen your body.

Q: Would you like to continue on your military career?

A: As a last resort yes.

Q: If so, what field would you like to go to?

A: I would like to join Special Operations Marine Core.

Q: Do you have any role models in the military service?

A: Not really to me all the soldiers with story are role models.

Bringing a SMILE to CHILD with a disability

For the eighth consecutive year, Belen Jesuit students hosted a 'fun day' for 100 children ages 3-12 with Autism and other disabilities. Over 300 students volunteered to come to school on October 17 to take part in the annual activity.

"Our students start the day very apprehensive but then find that the kids are a lot of fun," said Mrs. Olga Ramon, Mathematics teacher at Belen and event coordinator. "They learn techniques to better interact with the children, and they learn a little compassion, patience and understanding for these kids."

The activities began when the students from Blue Lakes Elementary School arrived at the Belen gymnasium. Among the activities were finger painting, basketball, hula-hoops, etc.

"This day is special for a number of reasons. For one, this event is held on a day when the school is closed so all the students participating from Belen are doing this as volunteers," said Ms. Ramon. "Secondly, this event gives our students the opportunity to give back and to have fun all while bringing a smile to child with a disability."

NATIONAL CAMPAIGN BY M-D SCHOOLS POLICE'S PUBLIC INFORMATION OFFICE

In July 2010, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) launched a national "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign – a simple and effective program to raise public awareness of indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime, and to emphasize the importance of reporting suspicious activity to the proper state and local law enforcement authorities. The "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign - originally implemented by New York City's Metropolitan Transportation Authority and now licensed to DHS for a nationwide campaign - is a simple and effective program to engage the public and key frontline employees to identify and report indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime to the proper transportation and law enforcement authorities.

The Department launches the "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign in conjunction with the Department of Justice's Nationwide Suspicious Activity Reporting Initiative - an administration effort to train state and local law enforcement to recognize behaviors and indicators related to terrorism and terrorism-related crime; standardize how those observations are documented and analyzed; and ensure the sharing of those reports with the Federal Bureau of Investigation-led Joint Terrorism Task Forces for further investigation and Fusion Centers for analysis.

Miami-Dade Schools Superintendent Alberto M. Carvalho announced recently that Miami-Dade County Public Schools has partnered with the U.S. Department of Homeland Security in adopting the "If You See Something, Say Something" initiative. Superintendent Carvalho was joined by Miami-Dade Schools Police (MDSP) Chief Ian Moffett, officials from local, state, and federal law enforcement as well as Miami-Dade Council of PTAs/PTSAs President Joseph Gebara.

"We need our community to be our eyes and ears and to have the courage to break the silence," said Superintendent of Schools Alberto M. Carvalho. "If you see something, say something, for the safety of our children. We cannot do this alone."

Earlier this year, Miami-Dade County Public Schools (M-DCPS) became the first and the only school district in the nation to partner with the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) and adopt the nationwide initiative. The initiative encourages the community to report suspicious behavior and activity to law enforcement. The partnership plays a pivotal role in helping to keep schools, students, and employees safe as evidenced recently by the courageous actions of a Miami-Dade Public Schools student who reported a threat to his school.

Originally launched by DHS in July 2010, "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign – is a simple and effective program to raise public awareness of indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime, and to emphasize the importance of reporting suspicious activity to the proper state and local law enforcement authorities. The "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign - originally implemented by New York City's Metropolitan Transportation Authority and now licensed to DHS for a nationwide campaign - is a simple and effective program to engage the public and key frontline employees to identify and report indicators of terrorism and terrorism-related crime to the proper transportation and law enforcement authorities.

DHS launched the "If You See Something, Say Something™" campaign in conjunction with the Department of Justice's Nationwide Suspicious Activity Reporting Initiative - an administration effort to train state and local law enforcement to recognize behaviors and indicators related to terrorism and terrorism-related crime; standardize how those observations are documented and analyzed; and ensure the sharing of those reports with the Federal Bureau of Investigation-led Joint Terrorism Task Forces for further investigation and Fusion Centers for analysis.

Chief Ian A. Moffett was instrumental in getting this initiative off the ground here in our backyard. Our approach to the program is not so much geared towards terrorism, but safety and security. The "If You See Something, Say Something" campaign is very important because it helps us to protect our children. During the press conference to announce this partnership, Chief Moffett said: "Our children need to get an education, and they must feel that they are secure and safe in doing so. We need to make sure that our students can concentrate while they are learning."

Students, parents, employees, and the community are encouraged to report any suspicious behavior or activity in and around schools to 305-995-COPS or 855-FLA-SAFE.

GM Autism Foundation

Hola! desde Gm Autism Foundation saludamos a todas los super papas y mamas que nos siguen y comparten nuestra filosofía: Luchar contra el autismo y conseguir un futuro mejor para nuestros hijos!.

Cuando comenze con la fundación, no tenía ni idea de lo que me iba a enfrentar pero si sabia perfectamente lo que queria: Ayudar! Pasar la informacion a ustedes, padres y madres de niños especiales, y cual es ese mensaje? Simple, que si se puede! Que no hay que perder las esperanzaś y la primera parte de la batalla es la actitud que tengamos nosotros. Pero hoy quiero contarles de algo más. Día a día recibo entre 20 y 30 llamadas, de sitios como Israel, Italia y sitios tan lejanos como Dubai En estas llamadas o email casi siempre hay un denominador en comun y es que todos tienen dos cosas. Ganas de sacar a sus ninos adelante y planes para el futuro. Eso esta bien pero a veces los escucho decir cuando mi hija se cure es cuando voy a poder hacer tal cosa o cuando mi hijo salga de esto por fin voy a poder vivir. Y claro que la meta de todos es que se curen, Pero no se nos puede olvidar que la vida hay que vivirla desde ya. No podemos sentarnos a esperar el día que su hijo o hija finalmente se recupere para poder disfrutar a nuestros ninos, disfrutenlos HOY, abrazenlos hoy, amapuchenlos y rian como nunca. Si esperamos la oportunidad perfecta, les cuento que es YA!. Porque la perfección no existe. Aprendamos a vivir con los matices que nos tocó pero disfruten cada avance y celebrenlo con la mayor de las alegrias. Así cuando lleguemos todos a nuestro sueño de alcanzar lo que queremos, podremos decir que lo logramos pero que también disfrutamos el camino hacia esa meta.

Tambien les quiero comentar que en los próximos días, estaremos dando un curso que nos piden muchisimo y estamos muy emocionados con el mismo. Es un taller práctico donde aprenderemos a hacer muchas cosas de la dieta para nuestros niños. Gluten free, casein free, algunas vegan, comidas y meriendas sanas, como planear un cumpleaños con meriendas sencillas y saludables en fin con información muy valiosa. Asimismo podran compartir con otras mamas sus experiencias y probar alguna de las recetas. Tendremos material de apoyo y una deliciosa merienda como siempre. Esten pendientes para las inscripciones porque el cupo es limitado a 50 personas. Sigannos en nuestras redes sociales instagram @ gmautismfoundation Twitter: @gmautismfounda1 o Facebook GM Autism Foundation para que tengan mas información sobre este y otros talleres que tenemos y ademas siempre estamos publicando articulos de interés, información de productos sanos y saludables, tips y demás consejos utiles para todos.

NOTICIAS DE RAQUEL REGALADO

Se inagura nueva academia para niños con autismo

En la mañana del viernes, 3 de octubre, tuvo lugar un corte de cinta para inaugurar la nueva academia para niños con autismo en la escuela primaria Citrus Grove en el Distrito 6.

Altos dirigentes del sistema escolar de Miami-Dade acompañaron a la Dra. Raquel Regalado en este evento, en el cual Regalado nuevamente celebró su iniciativa de traer mejores recursos terapéuticos para los niños de educación especial. Y definitivamente esta academia cuenta con el mejor recurso terapéutico para estos niños – un aula multisensorial. ¿Qué es un aula multisensorial? En los años 1970s evolucionó un concepto Holandés llamado ´Snoezelen´ (el despertar de los sentidos). Se refiere a un espacio atractivo con recursos para ayudar tanto al estudiante que necesita estimulación como al que necesita bajar sus niveles de ansiedad. Equipadas con estímulos auditivos, visuales, táctiles, olfativos, vestibulares y propioceptivos, las aulas multisensoriales han logrado ayudar a niños con dificultades en el lenguaje expresivo y comprensivo, insomnia, hiperactividad, frecuentes rabietas, pocas habilidades sociales, falta de iniciativa e interés en su entorno, dificultades de orientación personal y espacial, y otras dificultades sensoriales.

Al recibir terapia en este espacio – dotado con tubos de burbujas o bolas multicolores, columpios, objetos musicales, hilos de fibra óptica, masajeadores, colchonetas, difusores de aromas, espejos, proyectores de luces y mas – los niños de educación especial demostrarán mejor comportamiento y progreso académico en la escuela…y un mejor día en la escuela siempre ayuda a tener un mejor día después de la escuela.
